

SEO Intern for the Croatian market (m/f)

FlixBus is an innovative supplier of mobility services with headquarters in Berlin and Munich. With more than 10,000 connections, our green buses offer a modern, comfortable, and environmentally friendly way of traveling at the best prices. This makes us the clear market leader in Germany. Our goal is to grow on an international level and establish an extensive bus network throughout Europe, connecting large cities and small towns alike.

We want to internationalize our successful German business and therefore we are looking for a SEO Intern for the Croatian market (m/f) for our office in Munich.

Your tasks:

- You assist setting up a Croatian website
- You conduct market analyses and researches
- You develop the website, create online content and revise existing pages due to the outcomes of the market research
- You adapt information to the relevant search engines
- You are an essential support for the on- and off-page optimization
- You help with the attainment of the new cooperation partners
- You facilitate the intercultural and cross-national communication between our regional teams

Your profile:

- Enrolled student in Business Administration, Economics, Communication, Cultural Science or Applied Linguistics
- Previous experience in search engine optimization is an advantage
- Expertise in the common modern information technologies
- Native Croatian speaking, fluent in English or German; every other European language is a plus
- You are eloquent, well in text-writing and you have high analytical and communication skills
- Highly motivated in achievement and the necessary entrepreneurial drive to develop our business with us
- At least 4-6 months availability in Munich

Our offer:

- The possibility to work flexibly, goal orientated, and independently in an experienced and professional team
- A once in a lifetime chance to participate in the development of the next “big thing” in a totally new and innovative market
- The chance to develop and implement your own ideas

If you would like to help build the long distance bus market leader and assist in its internationalization into the European market, then we are looking forward to receiving your application. Please send your CV, cover letter, and certificates to:
