☆ Intercultural Learning Experience ☆

General Description

The sessions focusing on Intercultural Learning are based on the licensed “Global Competence Certificate” course. This course is a combination of self-guided online learning plus in-person sessions. It is designed to meet key learning goals helping learners develop intercultural competence. It ensures that every program participant receives a standard curriculum, which is designed to provide flexibility as learners complete online sessions at their own pace. Through forums, learners have the opportunity to connect with peers from all over the world. These online modules have been designed specifically for an 18+ audience, and will help each participant to reflect on their own cultural identity and support them as they learn about others.

Content

The program consists of various modules on key intercultural topics, self-awareness, awareness about others, emotional intelligence. Each module stands alone and includes a video with forums and assignments for the learner. Assignments are both reflective and interactive. Online pre-departure and post-return modules can be done by the learners on their own and through engaging with others. Participants will maximize their learning through in-person sessions (in Japan) where participants arrive with a baseline of information from the online curriculum. From there, a deeper reflection will be possible, aided by facilitation by EFIL staff. Modules include "roadmap to intercultural learning", "metaphors of culture", "ME as a cultural being", "stereotypes and generalization", "cultural values", "communication styles", "when cultures collide", "balancing challenge and support", "cultural surprises and irritations", "dealing with conflict", "coping strategies", etc.

Modular Approach

Pre-departure:

- * 9 modules are to be covered by the learners online, before the departure to Japan. This will take them each about 9 x 30min = 4.5 hours. EFIL will check in with participants via e-mail regarding their progress, and to provide personalized encouragement and supervision.
- * 1 webinar/conference call of approx. 90 minutes per group of 8-10 people, moderated by EFIL staff.

On-arrival:

* 4 modules will be covered in in-person sessions of 2 x 90 minutes (in Japan), facilitated by EFIL staff (with involvement of AFS Japan).

Post-return:

* 2 modules, online, after returning from the trip to Japan, complemented by another webinar of approx. 90 minutes (moderated by EFIL staff). As above (pre-departure), EFIL will check in with participants via e-mail regarding their progress.
